

Let's Talk: Refugees

Is education the solution?

Hope in Despair

What role does education play in integrating refugees in their host societies?

What about facilitating a potential return to their countries of origin? How can the future prospects of refugees living in Hamburg and across Germany be improved through education?

The UNESCO Institute for Lifelong Learning is opening its doors for an interactive panel discussion on these and other questions.

Photographer Najeeb Azad will join the panel and introduce Hope in Despair, his collection of images of life in Afghanistan, which have a particular focus on education, gender and peacebuilding.
